THE GENDER EQUALITY BILL, 2011

MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill seeks to provide for the elimination of gender discrimination in employment and to provide for the payment of equal remuneration to male and female employees who perform work of equal value.

Part 1 of the Bill contains clauses 1 and 2 which are preliminary provisions.

Clause 1 provides the short title.

Part 2 of the Bill contains clauses 3 to 16 which make provision for protection against gender discrimination.

Clause 3 describes the circumstances in which a person may be regarded as discriminating against another person for the purposes of the legislation. Clause 5 sets out exceptions where sex or marital status is a genuine occupational qualification.

Clause 6 empowers the Governor in Cabinet to make an Order to prescribe special measures to promote equality of opportunity in employment based on the grounds set out in section 3(2), and for such special measures to be deemed not to be discrimination.

Clause 7 provides that sexual harassment committed against a person by any other person constitutes discrimination based on sex. The clause also prohibits sexual harassment as defined in clause 2.
Clause 8 provides for equal remuneration to be paid to men and women performing work of equal value for an employer.

Clause 9 prohibits a partnership from discriminating against a person in the arrangements made for the purpose of determining who should be offered a position as a partner in the firm.

Clause 13 prohibits discrimination in connection with the provision of goods, services and facilities.

Clause 14 provides that where a requirement or condition which is not apparently in contravention of the legislation, has the effect of giving preference to a person where such preference would be discrimination on any ground specified in clause 3(2), a person shall not impose that requirement or condition, unless the person imposing it establishes good reason for its imposition and shows that its imposition is not made with a view to avoiding compliance with the legislation.

Clause 15 prohibits a person from causing the publication or display of an advertisement or notice which indicates or could reasonably be understood as indicating an intention to commit a breach of the legislation.

Clause 16 prohibits a person from asking another person to provide information that would not, in the same circumstances, be required of a person of a different sex, marital status or pregnant state.

and for the expenses of the Tribunal to be paid out of the general revenue of the Islands.

Clause 32 provides for the making of complaints by a person who has reasonable grounds for believing that another person is engaging or has engaged in discrimination. The complaint is to be made within six months from the date on which the alleged acts that were the basis of the complaint were done except that where a complaint is made after that time the Tribunal may if the reasons for the delay are reasonable, accept that complaint.

Clause 33 provides for the hearing of complaints by the Tribunal.
